Densitas secures $250K investment

By AuntMinnie.com staff writers

October 22, 2015 -- Medical device firm Densitas has received a $250,000 investment from Innovacorp, a venture capital firm based in Nova Scotia, Canada.

The deal is part of a larger seed round that also includes private investors. Densitas plans to use the money to continue to develop DM-Density, a tool that radiologists can use when reviewing a woman's mammogram to determine breast density.
